

Commitment to sustainability – allmanhall are taking real action

allmanhall is pleased to announce that we have joined the United Nations Global Compact Initiative – a voluntary leadership platform for the development, implementation and disclosure of all responsible business practices.

With this announcement, allmanhall is proud to join thousands of other companies globally, committed to taking responsible action to create the world we all want.

The UN Global Compact is a call to organisations everywhere to align their operations and strategies with ten universally accepted principals in the areas of human rights, labour, environment and anti-corruption, and to take action in support of UN goals and issues embodied in the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Launched in 2000, the UN Global Compact is the largest corporate sustainability initiative in the world, with more than 15,000 companies and 3,800 non-business signatories based in over 160 countries.

Says Mike Meek, procurement and sustainability director at allmanhall: "We recognise that our current daily decision making is a means to determine the type of future that we want to create and as a food procurement organisation this extends to what we choose to eat. Joining the UN Global Compact and embedding its principles demonstrates our commitment to bringing about a fairer, more prosperous and sustainable future and enhances our goals of using our company's reach to collaborate, innovate and to bring about healthier and sustainable outcomes within our community network".

Mike's colleague, sustainability manager Theo Kuehn adds: "allmanhall is delighted to have formally committed to the United Nations Global Compact. The compact is a fantastic scheme in the adoption of universal best practice in sustainability and corporate responsibility. In this decade where action is imperative for humanity's future, a tool that allows businesses to benchmark themselves and work towards clear targets is invaluable."
